

Brooks Tingle
President & Chief Executive Officer, John Hancock

Brooks Tingle is President and Chief Executive Officer of John Hancock, the U.S. segment of Toronto-based Manulife Financial Corporation. He also is a member of Manulife's Executive Leadership Team.

Mr. Tingle, who is based in Boston, leads John Hancock — one of the largest life insurers in the United States, supporting more than ten million Americans with a broad range of financial products, including life insurance and annuities. John Hancock also supports US investors through a separate Global Wealth and Asset Management business, bringing leading investment capabilities and retirement planning and administration expertise to individuals and institutions.

Before taking on his current role in 2023, Mr. Tingle served as President and CEO of John Hancock Insurance. Notably, he led John Hancock to embrace and implement the company's now market-leading behavioral insurance solution — John Hancock Vitality — which offers life insurance customers significant savings and rewards for taking everyday steps towards a longer, healthier, better life. Previously, Mr. Tingle held various leadership roles across Marketing, Strategy, and Operations for John Hancock Insurance, building strong advanced analytics capabilities and overseeing new business, underwriting, claims, information technology, policy administration, customer service, and reinsurance administration.

Mr. Tingle serves as President and Chairman of the boards for John Hancock's insurance companies, including John Hancock Life Insurance Company (U.S.A.) and John Hancock Life Insurance Company of New York. Additionally, he is a member of the boards of the American Council of Life Insurers and LL Global, and serves on the Tufts Nutrition Council for the Gerald J. and Dorothy R. Friedman School of Nutrition Science and Policy.

He received an MBA from Boston University and a B.A. in Economics from the University of New Hampshire.